French luxury goods manufacturer S.T. Dupont and French fashion label Casablanca are coming together to create a neo-antique collection.

The pair's L'Art Du Sport collaborative is inspired by Ancient Greek design codes, integrating "Hellenic architectural details and athletic representations on amphorae," according to a statement. Released this week, the products align with Casablanca's fall/winter 2024 collection as the brand applies its iconography to S.T. Dupont's lighters, pens, accessories and leather goods.

"The Art of Sport"

With the release, S.T. Dupont and Casablanca look to combine high-end performance with luxury flair.

The vibrant, bold color palette of green, blue, red and yellow motifs invoke historical sporting imagery that dates back to the Greek amphorae while also representing contemporary tennis-inspired touches, a fixture of the fashion label (see story).

The collection is split into three segments: tennis, mosaic and leather goods. The first aptly takes the sport's courts and decor and applies their looks to S.T. Dupont's Ligne 2 lighter, cigar humidor, and ashtrays.

Mosaic adds a lacquered, ornamental look to the manufacturer's Slimmy and Biggy lighter lines, as well as various accessories and the Line D Eternity pen. The duo also specially crafted a collection of leatherworks as a part of the collaboration, with a cross-body cigar pouch and document holder, as well as cigar and pen containers.

The S.T. Dupont x Casablanca Mosaic collection is available through S.T. Dupont's site.
